Mastering Compelling Cover Letters!

Deliver your documents in an attention-getting package – and get yourself invited for the job interview!
Different cultures and labour markets seem to have different standards – and we see an increasing trend that especially international candidates, only send their CVs when applying for jobs and do not attach a cover letter/a motivated application.
However, recent Danish surveys indicate that across private and public sector, across small and large companies, hiring managers and recruiters still prefer to have both!
Compelling Cover Letters! Focuses on both solicited and unsolicited applications and will cover 3 main areas; Tailoring your cover letter to the job description, focusing content on what you bring to the role, and infusing your cover letter document with your personality and motivation for the role.

Key take aways:

- Your cover letter and CV is an epic couple – your attention-sparking package!
- How to tailor your cover letter to the role you are applying for
- How to demonstrate that you are the perfect candidate for the role
- How to convey your motivation for the role and the company
